—A business house in Columbus, Ohio, has conspicuously displayed in its show-window a man's skull, and printed in large letters across the forehead the words of warning, "This was a Drummer."

—The Maryland Jockey Club wants the owners of Ochiltree and Tenbroeck to race at Pimlico next spring. The club offers $500 to each horse, to pay expenses, and to the winner one-half the stand and gate receipts.

—Utah now contains ninety mining districts and some 10,000 people engaged in mining. The mines and improvements are valued all the way from fifteen to thirty million dollars, and the annual yield of lead, silver and gold has reached five millions.

—"Here's union!" shouted an Oil City man, as he stuck his knife into the butter. "Here's what?" asked his wife. "Union!" he responded. "Why do you say that?" inquired his wife. "Because in union there is strength, and ditto here," he answered as he raised the butter to his nostrils.

—It was reported of Lord Byron that he said that the most ungraceful act which a woman could perform was the eating of an egg. Commenting on this, a calm Western observer said that Byron had probably never seen an American woman hanging on by the teeth to a blazing hot corn-cob.

—Judge Treat, of the United States Court for the Eastern district of Missouri, yesterday ordered the appointment of supervisors to prevent election frauds at St. Louis and elsewhere in that district. Col. Broadhead opposed the appointments. The matter has created a great deal of comment in St. Louis.

—Stuffing ballot-boxes is not a very good way to carry on a "reform" election, but Sammy Tilden had it done in 1868, and he is preparing to have it done this fall. The boldest frauds are being perpetrated. The registration has been already increased 24,000 in Brooklyn and 42,000 in New York over the large registry of 1874.

—In the elevated regions of the interior of West Africa, where there are no dense primeval forests, extensive swamps and pestilential jungles, cattle and horses show no sign of "infection" or poisoned state of the blood." They flourish in uncounted herds. And in those regions men are healthy, vigorous and intelligent.

—To have convicted Democratic ballot box stuffers and repeaters is an offense which it seems the Brooklyn Democracy cannot forgive. A Reform candidate, although favored by the "Boss," was defeated in the Congressional Convention in Mr. Shamaker's district by the men whom a few years ago he had sent to State Prison.

—General McClellan was expected to speak in Indiana about two months ago. He has reached Cincinnati and will assault Indianapolis by close approaches. It is expected that if his strategy is correct he will reach the edge of Indiana in about four years. He is waiting for the muddy season before he really makes the first step.

—At St. Louis yesterday the U. S. Circuit Court made order that upon the payment of $50,000 cash and the execution of a properly secured bond for $550,000, the Missouri Pacific railroad be turned over to Jas. Baker, trustee for Cornelius K. Garrison, and that the deed for the property be given to him by L. D. Thompson, Master in Chancery.

—In Wyoming Territory the officers' wives and laundresses attached to regiments can vote, not being "sworn into the United States service," but neither officers nor soldiers can do so! Altogether it is estimated that 18,000 women vote. The Territory contains 168 saloons—one to every 200 population—and about half as many maisons de joie, and is reliably Democratic.

—This is the trying period of the year when the evening air is dense with the smoke of torches, when the noises of the political tumult assail the drowsy ear of Morpheus, when the weary wife lays down her prayer book at midnight, clasps a piece of kindling wood in her pale, thin fingers and stands out in the darksome hall listening for the footfall of one stealing up stairs without his boots.

—A remarkable game of cards was played in the basement of a house on Washington street, yesterday. The boy of the house had just turned up a diamond, and was waiting for the other boy to lead, when the old man appeared at the head of the stairs, ordered the other boy up, turned up his own boy, discarded some of his apparel, and swung a club. The old man played it alone, and made every point, although the neighbor's boy cut.

—Another well-planned fraud has met with sudden failure. The slab of sandstone containing a human foot-print and two bird tracks, which was recently unearthed at North Canton, Conn., has been submitted to Prof. Marsh, of Yale College. He says that the slab is an artificial stone, in which the impressions were made while it was soft. It was fashioned with great skill, and has apparently been buried for some time, so as to have an ancient look. It is said that the owner has taken a portion of the stone to Chicago for sale there.

—A painful proof of the reckless "economy" of the late Confederate House has recently been furnished. This is the year in which, under the law, limbless soldiers of the Union are entitled either to a new limb or $50 commutation for it. In reply to an application made within a few days, the Surgeon-General has informed the applicant that, in consequence of the failure of sufficient appropriations, the $500,000 required to pay this debt to 10,000 soldiers cannot be drawn from the Treasury. So these one-legged and one-armed soldiers must wait the action of Congress next winter, or the action of a new Congress. What sort of a Congress shall it be?

CENTENNIAL NOTES.

THE WAR.

Conspiracy in Constantinople.

LONDON, October 23.—Dispatches from Constantinople announce that the Government has discovered a conspiracy to murder the Grand Vizier and Midhat Pasha, and has consequently arrested two Ulemas of high rank and Ramiz Pasha. The culprits have been exiled to various islands. Other arrests are expected.

A Peace Feeling Prevailing.

The steady advance in consols and other international stocks, which fell during last week's panic, indicates a prevailing impression here that war is not imminent, and that a peaceable solution of the Eastern question is not impossible. The Times says there is perhaps danger that unreasonable alarms may be succeeded by unreasonable hopes, but it is evident that we need not despair of seeing the crisis pass away without an outbreak of hostilities between Russia and Turkey. The same opinion is noticeable in other quarters. The recent excitement has had the effect of demonstrating what would be the attitude of the powers in case of aggressive war by Russia.

Fighting Renewed.

Fighting in the Timok and Morava valleys, and on the Drina, has been renewed with great stubbornness. Gen. Tchernayeff telegraphs that the Turks were repulsed along the whole line, while newspaper correspondents are unanimous that the Servians were badly defeated, losing 1,500 men in the attempt on Saitschar and 3,000 about Deligrad. One correspondent telegraphs that the Turks have taken all the positions around Djunis, and will probably take Djunis, in which case Deligrad, Alexinatz, General Tchernayeff's new headquarters at Kaionik, and the whole Morava valley will be in their hands. Russian officers, of whom there are said to be fourteen for each Servian battalion, suffered heavily in the recent fighting.

BELGRADE, October 23.—The Servians admit that the Turks captured Krevel heights, southwest of Djunis, after three days' fighting. One bulletin says although the position is important, its loss is not believed to be decisive, as Djunis commands the Servian line. The position is critical. Russia's active aid is anxiously awaited.

Harmony Among the Powers.

LONDON, October 23.—A special from Vienna to the Times says the most perfect harmony reigns again among the powers. Germany's answer, uttered with that almost cynical frankness which has more than once startled diplomacy, may be credited with having brought the new understanding about. While she saw no objection to a six months' armistice, the only chance for preserving a common understanding and common action of the guaranteeing powers was to declare with Russia in favor of an equally objectionable six weeks' armistice, because Russia's committals might not leave her free to compromise, while the other powers had perfect liberty of action. Even England, which had already accepted the six months' armistice, decided to accept a basis for the restoration of the so-called harmony by offering no opposition to a six weeks' truce, but having at the same time disclaimed the lead which she hitherto held in the negotiations with the Porte. The initiative now devolves on Russia, and Gen. Ignatieff has returned to Brussels.

A special from Vienna to M Lestood, the organ here of the Russian Government, announces that Gen. Ignatieff, Ambassador at Constantinople, will insist on a six weeks' armistice. He is instructed to explain Russia's motives to the Porte. It is believed that his representations will be moderately couched, and not take the form of an ultimatum, and that the other powers will support Russia's proposals.

Roumania Declaring Her Independence.

LONDON, October 23.—A dispatch from Bucharest says Roumania has resolved upon declaring her independence. The Government relinquishes all claim upon European protection, replacing it with an alliance with Russia. A proclamation is about to be issued proclaiming Prince Charles King of Roumania. The army will be mobilized and paper currency issued. The dispatch creates great excitement. It is generally considered here that this action by Roumania will retard, and perhaps break effectively the negotiations for peace now going on.

The Turks Advancing.

LONDON, October 24.—A dispatch to the Standard from Djunis says there was no fighting on Sunday. The Turks have advanced their headquarters five miles. The storming of the fortified mounts over which the highway to Krusheratz runs is still to be done.

Great Suffering in Servia.

LONDON, October 24.—The Standard's Belgrade correspondent represents that unparalleled distress prevails in both armies and throughout Servia. Unless peace is speedily proclaimed the country will be utterly ruined. There is no suffering in Belgrade, but in the interior thousands of people are starving. A majority of the soldiers are wearing their summer linen uniforms, and have no blankets. There are 180,000 Bulgarian and Bosnian refugees in Servia.

The Peace Proposals.

The same correspondent reports that the Russian diplomatists say Gen. Ignatieff has been instructed to inform the Sultan that Russia makes the English proposals hers, with an additional guarantee. If the Porte rejects them intervention will be begun simultaneously by Russia, Greece and Roumanias.

A telegram from Vienna states that the interpellation relative to the Eastern question which it is proposed to introduce in the Reichsrath is regarded in diplomatic circles as an error of judgment, as Austria's policy is still adhesion to the triple alliance.

The Porte Accepts an Armistice.

In a semi-official statement the Post announces that the Porte accepts a six weeks' armistice, suggesting a further prolongation of six weeks if at the conclusion of the first six the deliberations are incomplete, and if at the end of twelve weeks no settlement is reached, that there be a further armistice of two months.

The Reuter Telegram Company confirms this statement precisely, except as to the proposals for prolongations of the armistice, which they say are made as conditions, not as suggestions.

The Post denies that Russia has sent an ultimatum. The Ottoman Government has not been summoned to subject its reforms to Commissioners protected by an armed force. It is to be hoped that the two powers which are in direct negotiations may come to a speedy understanding. England, while having withdrawn interference, will resent any infraction of the stipulations of the treaty of Paris.

Reuter's telegram from Constantinople announces that Gen. Ignatieff will have a private audience with the Sultan to-day.

The Times' dispatch from Berlin also says the Porte is ready to grant Russia's latest demands provided the integrity of the Ottoman Empire is guaranteed.

From Belgrade comes news that Gen. Tchernayeff has withdrawn from Djunis, and the road is open to Kruschevatz.

It is reported that Hospodare Prince Charles is to be proclaimed King of Roumania.

GREAT BRITAIN.

A Desperate Struggle for Liberty.

LONDON, October 23.—Leonard Amblam, a Belgian, who was arrested in July last on board an outward bound steamer from Liverpool, accused of the robbery and murder of M. Mursut, a banker, and his housekeeper, at Cirrey, near Brussels, was delivered on Friday to a Belgian officer at Dover. Arriving at Ostend, the officer and his prisoner, the latter manacled, took a special compartment on the Brussels train. On the arrival of the train at Brussels both were missing. The compartment they occupied was deluged with blood, and bore marks of a terrific struggle. The body of the officer was found beside the track with his skull and face battered. All his valuables were missing. It is conjectured Amblam watched his opportunity to attack the officer with his wrist irons, and beat him to death, after which he unlocked the manacles and escaped. He has not yet been recaptured.

Council at Balmoral.

LONDON, October 23.—The council previously announced was held by the Queen at Balmoral to-day. Parliament was further prorogued from October 30 to December 12.

INDIA.

Failure of the Crops.

LONDON, October 23.—A Calcutta dispatch to the Times says that the prospects for the crops in Bombay become daily more gloomy. The districts of Khandeisk, Nashick, Ahmendenggur, Paonal, Shalapore, Kaladgiand and Dhurmai, containing a population of nearly six millions, are threatened with severe distress. The local government estimates that over 200,000 persons must be relieved in three districts alone. It is stated that the monsoon crops have entirely failed, and the absence of rain prevents the sowing of rubbee and winter crops. The Collector at Poonah reports that not a single blade of grass is visible for miles. The tanks and rivers are drying up, and cattle are dying from starvation. The Collector at Halapore gives a still worse report. The Government has opened relief works, and is employing people in excavating tanks and making roads.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Important Opinions in Several Life Insurance Cases.

WASHINGTON, October 23.—The following important opinions in several life insurance cases were delivered by the Supreme Court to-day:

New York Life Insurance Company, appellant, vs. Wm. C. Stalham and Parmelia A. Dudley, formerly Parmelia A. Stalham, appealed from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Mississippi.

The New York Life Insurance Company, plaintiff in error, vs. Charlotte Zeyms, in error, to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Mississippi.

The Manhattan Life Insurance Company, plaintiff in error, vs. R. S. Buck, executor of Charles L. Buck, deceased, in error, to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Mississippi.

The points decided are as follows: A policy of life insurance, stipulating for the payment of an annual premium by the assured, with a condition to be void on non-payment, is not an insurance from year to year like a common fire policy. But premiums constitute an annuity, the whole of which is consideration for the entire assurance for life, and the condition is a condition subsequent making void the policy by its non-performance. But the time of payment in such policies is material and is the essence of the contract, and failure to pay involves an absolute forfeiture which cannot be relieved against in equity. If failure to pay the annual premium be caused by the intervention of war between the territories in which the insurance company and the assured respectively reside, which makes it unlawful for them to hold intercourse, the policy is nevertheless forfeited if the company insist on the conditions, but in such case the assured is entitled to the equitable value of the policy arising from premiums actually paid. This equitable value is the difference between the cost of a new policy and the present value of premiums yet to be paid on the forfeited policy when the forfeiture occurred, and may be recovered in equity. The doctrine of revival of contracts suspended during war is based on considerations of equity and justice, and cannot be invoked to revive a contract which it would be unjust or inequitable to revive, as where time is the essence of the contract, or where the parties cannot be made equal. The average rate of mortality is a fundamental basis of life assurance, and as this is subverted by giving to the assured the option to revive their policies or not, after they have been suspended by a war (since none but the sick and dying would apply), it would be unjust to compel a revival against the company.

Mr. Justice Bradley delivered the opinion of the Court.

The above opinion was concurred in by Justices Swayne, Miller, Davis, Field and Bradley. The other four members of the Court dissented. Mr. Chief Justice Waite, dissenting, said: "I agree with the majority of the Court in the opinion that the decree and judgments in these cases should be reversed, and that the failure to pay the annual premiums as they matured put an end to the policy, notwithstanding the default was occasioned by the war. But I do not think that a default even under such circumstances raises an implied promise by the company to pay the assured what his policy was equitably worth at the time. I therefore dissent from that part of the judgment just announced which remands the causes for trial upon such a 'promise.'"

The insured parties lived in Mississippi, and were prevented from paying the'r premiums in consequence of the war.

THE REBELLIOUS SOUTH.

Report on the Recent Outrages Near Aiken, S. C.—Eight Hundred White Men Engaged in the Riots.

WASHINGTON, October 23.—Captain Lloyd, of the Eighteenth Infantry, United States Army, who was ordered to the scene of disturbance near Aiken, S. C., makes a report to Army Headquarters regarding his investigations. On his arrival at Rouse's Bridge, Captain Lloyd states that he found a body of five hundred men, under command of A. P. Butler, who had thrown out skirmish lines surrounding the negroes, and adds: There was undoubted evidence of a well digested plan, which, if carried out, would have resulted in the slaughter of nearly all the negroes in the place. The presence of troops brought about an agreement by which both armed whites and negroes disbanded. On the march from Rouse's Bridge to Ellenton the bodies of three negroes who had been killed were found, and information was received that five others had also been murdered. One white man was killed. The negroes were completely cowed and afraid to leave their places in the woods and return to work from fear of being shot in the cotton fields. A detachment sent down the Barnwell road met a body of twenty or thirty whites, who said they were a detachment of Gen. Haywood's command, under orders from Judge Wiggins, to disarm and arrest negroes, and also to protect a party of negroes while burying a colored member of the Legislature, who had been shot near Ellenton. The report estimates the total number of whites engaged in the riot at not less than eight hundred, coming from Georgia and Edgefield, Aiken, and Barnsville, S. C. The Port Royal Railroad, which had been torn up, was repaired under the protection of a squad of soldiers. The men previously had been afraid to work on the road.

COLUMBIA, S. C., October 23.—Troops are arriving daily. Thirteen companies are now in Columbia and twenty-four in other parts of the State. Everything is perfectly quiet throughout the State. Affidavits affirming peace and submission to law are received daily. The political campaign is conducted vigorously by both parties. The so-called "Rifle Clubs" have all disbanded. The colored militia are still organized.

Strike on the New Jersey Central Railroad

NEW YORK, October 23.—The engineers and firemen on the New Jersey Central Railroad struck work at 12 o'clock to-night. Wherever the trains happened to be the engineers dumped the fires and left the engines. The consequence is all traffic on the road is stopped, and many trains en route are unable to proceed.

MURRAY VS. KILGORE.

Decision of the Supreme Court in the County Treasury Contest.

A Writ of Ouster Against the Present Incumbent—Effect of the Decision, &c.

In the Supreme Court yesterday morning an opinion was delivered by Chief Justice Agnew, who merely announced the decision of the Court. The facts in the case are so well known that a history of it here would be superfluous. Following is the

THE TEXT OF THE OPINION.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania ex relatione Attorney General vs. Samuel Kilgore. Error to the Common Pleas No. 1 of Allegheny county. Opinion of the Court by Chief Justice Agnew.

The position of the counsel for Samuel Kilgore is that he was in office at the time of the adoption of the new Constitution, and at the first election under it, and was, therefore, under the 26th section of the schedule, continued in office from the first Monday of March, 1874, for two years, ending March, 1876, and thereafter until his successor should be duly qualified. This would continue his term of office until the first Monday of January, 1877. To test the correctness of this position, we must examine the facts before we can apply the provision of the schedule. Kilgore was first elected at the general election of 1871, and, according to the law relating to Allegheny county, his term of two years began on the first Monday of March, 1872, and consequently expired at the same time in 1874. He was therefore in office at the time of the adoption of the new Constitution under his election in 1871 and not under the election of 1873. But the new Constitution took effect, according to the schedule, on the first day of January, 1874, before his second term began, and by the second section of the fourteenth article, County Treasurers as county officers, "shall be elected at the general elections and hold their offices for the term of three years, beginning on the first Monday of January next after their election, and until their successors shall be duly qualified; all vacancies not otherwise provided for shall be filled in such manner as may be provided by law." The term of Kilgore having expired on the first Monday of March, 1874, after the Constitution took effect, it is evident the office became open to the operation of the new Constitution before the first general election under it in 1874, when an election to fill the office under the new Constitution could be held, unless we read the word "and" or in the 26th section of the schedule. The words of the section are these: "All persons in office in this Commonwealth at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, and at the first election under it shall hold their respective offices until the term for which they have been elected or appointed shall expire, and until their successors shall be duly qualified, unless otherwise provided in this Constitution." That and may be read or when it is evident that the intent requires it, is admitted; but that it ought not to be so read in that instance is manifest. No necessary intent requires it. The Constitution is the primordial act of the people, whose sovereign will must take effect when it can, while the schedule is not intended to supersede or supplant it, but to adapt it to the new order of things. But for the schedule the new order would take effect on the instant of adoption, and all officers under the old order must give way. The schedule bridges over the intervening chasm between the two orders, so as to make easy the passage from one to the other. If a term of office be not existing when the new Constitution is capable of filling it, it is the right of people and their sovereign will, as ordained in the new frame of government, to fill it under the new frame. But if the term of office is existing at the time of the adoption, and continues until after the first election so that it cannot be filled at that election without injustice to the officer and probably without prejudice to the public interest, it is reasonable that the term should be continued until it would have expired by efflux of its time. Hence the schedule so provides. But if the term expire before the first election the office becomes open to the operation of the new Constitution, because it is then in the power of the people to fill it and the rights of the people and their will as expressed in the second section of the 14th article, must be enforced. These are that the County Treasurer shall be elected at the general election, that his term shall begin on the first of January next, after that election, and that it shall continue for a period of three years, instead of beginning in the following March and continuing only two years. There is no reason, therefore, for changing the express language of the 26th section of the schedule, which, as it now stands, enforces the rights and executes the will of the people, and thereby gives the new Constitution its proper, early and symmetrical effect. The County Treasurer is but one of the numerous class of county officers enumerated in the first section of the 14th article, while the 2d section was intended to produce uniformity, so far as possible, by putting them all on the same footing.

It is urged that Kilgore was elected in 1873, and therefore would have been in office at the first election under the new Constitution in 1874. But he was not in office under the election of 1873, on the first of January, 1874, when the schedule put the Constitution into effect; and, therefore, he did not fall within the terms of the 26th section of the schedule. He was then in office under a former election, and in order to support his claim to hold the office under the election of 1873, we must say that one not in office at the adoption of the Constitution shall afterwards take office in order to be in office at the time of the first election. But this, we have seen, is unreasonable and without necessity, and postpones the operation of the constitution, contrary to the expressed will of the people that it should take effect on the first Monday of January, 1874, and their express provision that this operation shall be postponed only when there is a term of office existing at the time of adoption, and also at the time of the first election. The postponement of the operation of the new frame of government in this respect would, by the defendant's interpretation, defer the right of the people to fill the office under this frame until the first Monday of January, 1877. The election of 1873 was not under the new Constitution, and therefore gave no right to the office contrary to its intent. Its adoption subsequently swept away all rights to office, unless saved by the schedule. In such a case there can be no appeal to equitable considerations, not provided for in the schedule. The sovereign will of the people expressed in a primordial act cannot be stayed by a new election under a former frame of government, unless it has been their pleasure to permit by a temporary provision to save it. Then on what grounds of reason or intention shall we change the language of the schedule by reading "and" or? "And" harmonizes with the Constitution and schedule and gives effect to the rights of the people. "Or" postpones their operation and robs the people of their rights.

By a misconception of the effect of the schedule no election took place in 1874 and a vacancy thereby occurred. But the omission to elect cannot change the meaning of the constitution. Under the act of the 15th of May, 1874, the vacancy could have been filled by the Governor until another general election; and if not filled it is worthy of consideration whether the true intent of the schedule would not have continued one in office at the adoption of the Constitution until an election in 1875 should take place to fill the office. Such an interpretation would be in aid of the Constitution and not hostile to it. But of this we give no opinion.

The election of James G. Murray being the first that took place under the new Constitution, we perceive nothing to prevent his contesting the illegal tenure of Mr. Kilgore, with the consent and intervention of the Attorney General, who himself sued out this writ of quo warranto. If Mr. Murray was ineligible at the time of his election to hold the office when elected the remedy is not by suffering one illegally in office to continue it. When Murray's right to it shall be contested by the Commonwealth, through her proper officer, it will be time to enquire into his ineligibility. Judgment of ouster must be given against this defendant.

And now October 23, 1876, it is ordered and adjudged by the court that the judgment of the Court of Common Pleas be reversed and set aside, and that the defendant, Samuel Kilgore, be ousted and altogether excluded from the office of Treasurer of the county of Allegheny, and that the Commonwealth do recover from the said defendant her costs in this behalf, expected and incurred.

····The alarm of fire from box 2 after 6 o'clock last evening was the result of a burning chimney at No. 2, Fourth street.

····Mr. T. D. Steen, who was injured on Saturday evening in rescuing a child, and whose case was critical for a time, is now in a fair way for recovery.

····Wm. Quartz is charged before Alderman Moreland with assault and battery, on oath of Mrs. Catharine Scully, who alleges that he kicked her several times.

····Wm. McPhillamy, the Irish giant of the Third ward, Allegheny, won $50 more on Saturday evening on a bet that a horse could not pull him from a prone position.

····Several robberies of houses took place in the East End, Saturday evening, while the procession was passing. Hugh McCutchen, a butcher, had his pocket picked of $36.

····Wm. Sloan and Robert West were arrested in Lawrenceville on Saturday night as suspicious characters. The former was sent twenty days to jail and the latter was discharged.

····Charles Foster was yesterday sent thirty days to the Work House by Mayor McCarthy, for causing the arrest of a man on the baseless charge that he had robbed him on Saturday night.

····A slight fire was occasioned in the house of Mrs. McNaman, No. 1 Bedford avenue, at about half-past three o'clock yesterday morning, by a lamp explosion. But little damage ensued.

····Mayor McCarthy yesterday morning sent John Roxbury ninety days to the Workhouse for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and his wife, Margaret, got thirty days for a similar offense.

····There was an immense attendance at the funeral of Frank Kline, one of the victims of the Zug's mill boiler explosion, which took place from his residence, in the Ninth ward, Sunday afternoon.

····Yesterday was the day fixed for the hearing in the case of Sailor Burke, charged with shooting Mr. Thomas H. Hunter, but as Mr. Hunter was not able to be present it was postponed until November 1st.

····The Directors of the Chamber of Commerce failed to get a quorum for their meeting yesterday afternoon, owing to the absence from the city of a number of members who nearly always make it a point to attend.

····A joint committee of the Turnverein and Mannerchor Singing Societies of the South Side meet at Odd Fellows' Hall this evening, to make arrangements for a public entertainment for the benefit of the Zug sufferers.

····The application for Grier's pardon will likely not come before the Board of Pardons until the first Tuesday of December. There will be no meeting next month because the election occurs on the day of meeting.

····Whisky and Democracy were intimately blended in Lawrenceville on Saturday night, and as a result Wm. McElroy, R. P. Jones, M. Elder, W. R. Jamison and John Jones were each fined one dollar and costs by Deputy Mayor King.

····Reporter—I see by the GAZETTE that your are a Tilden and Hendricks puller, while Morris is a Hayes and Wheeler man. Scharff—That's a mistake. Morris is also a Democrat.—Chronicle. Scharff is mistaken. See Morris' friends or Morris himself.

····A severe hail storm passed over Greensburg Sunday evening, occasioning considerable damage in the town and throughout the country. The windows of the Methodist Church Seminary and many other buildings in the borough were broken, stones falling as large as walnuts.

····A policeman on Wylie avenue, above Fulton street, alarmed the whole neighborhood about half past eleven o'clock last night by firing a number of shots at a rapidly retreating burglar who had attempted to break into a house on Webster street. The blue coat failed to "bring his man."

····Forty dollars was stolen from the pocket of a vest hanging in one of the rooms of P. Magee's boarding house, No. 515 Penn street, yesterday morning, by a sneak thief, who entered through the open door. A "jimmy" and a knife were found on the premises after the theft was committed.

····About midnight of Sunday, Mr. August Snyder, living at the corner of Butler and Thirty-eighth streets, heard thieves at his chicken coop. He fired three shots from his revolver in that direction and three thieves ran. He pursued and captured a boy named Sloan. He was committed for trial.

····The $128,000 that was to be paid last week on the Nation Trust Company's last compromise it is positively said will be forthcoming this week. The other half will be ready next week or the week following. All the money is ready in the banks, but it is to be furnished on condition that it shall pay all the claims. There are a few small claims that are yet unadjusted.

····Dr. W. W. Cole, Health Officer of Allegheny, makes the following report of deaths in that city for the week ending Saturday, October 21st: Accident, 1; cancer, 1; consumption, 2; dentition, 1; enteritis, 1; typhoid fever, 1; scarlet fever, 2; heart disease, 2; mania potu, 1; old age, 1; tumor, 1; premature birth, 1; pneumonitis, 1; smallpox, 1; ulceration of the throat, 1; still born, 1. Total, 19. Males, 10; females, 9.

····At a meeting of the Street Committee held Saturday afternoon, the application of the Pittsburgh Gas Company to lay a switch across Second avenue to connect the new works with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, was taken up and Mr. Duff submitted a plan which was referred to a sub-committee in conjunction with the City Engineer, with instructions to make the necessary surveys and report to the committee.

····On Saturday night a quarrel took place between John Blood and Phillip Morris in Ben Morris's tavern, on Butler street, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets, during which Morris shot Blood in the abdomen. Morris was arrested and committed to jail to await the result of Blood's injuries. The shooting was the result of an old feud, and Morris claims that he shot in self defense, Blood being a much larger man than he.

····Notice was given in the GAZETTE a few days ago of the finding of a package of papers apparently belonging to Charles S. Gardner, of Chagrin Falls, Ohio. Among other things was a certificate of deposit for $825. Mr. Gardner having seen the notice, yesterday wrote to the Chief and received the articles. He thinks his pocket was picked while he was in the Democratic headquarters on Fourth avenue, on election night, listening to the returns. He is a banker.

····A man who has been hostler for a tavern keeper in the Diamond, called at the Mayor's office last evening, and stated that there was a mysterious package in the stable of the house in question. Detective Moessner went down and found that it was two whips, a side of kip leather and a number of pieces of leather cut out for boots and shoes. The proprietor said the things had been left there (hid away under the hay!) and he would give them up.

····Mr. D. W. Carle, Scharff's brother-in-law and backer, says that the correct time in Saturday's race was 36:23, and that the course was five miles and 200 yards. Scharff is of the opinion that he will not be challenged this year, but if he is, will accept. As champion of America, however, he has the right to choose his own water. He got it in on Morris, who was the champion of the United States, by stipulating for the championship of America.

····The Titusville papers of yesterday publish the detailed report of the Petroleum Grange Committees taken some time since showing the contents of tanks in the several districts of the oil regions. The following as the total number of barrels in the territory embraced: Merchantable oil, 3,164,384.44; B. S., 235,067.70; Water 30,740.58. Total fluid, 3,430,192.72. In reference to the report the Courier says it didn't amount to much, and the Herald is of the opinion that it will tend to create a false impression upon the trade.

····According to the Wheeling Intelligencer the excursionists which left that city on the steamer Telegram Friday evening to attend the Morris-Scharff boat race had anything but a pleasant time in getting to Pittsburgh. That paper states that a short distance above Wheeling the boat stuck for about two hours, and had to be sparred off. Saturday morning a heavy fog prevailed, and the steamer was obliged to lay over until it lifted, so that she did not get to Steubenville until 10 o'clock. Here the greater part of the excursionists left the boat and took a train for the race.

"Rebel Debt" and "Southern War Claims"—Statement of Hon. Alex. G. Cochran.

Mr. Editor:

Some of the newspapers of this county have charged that if the Democratic candidates be elected to Congress they will vote to pay the "rebel debt" and "Southern war claims." I pronounce that statement, so far as it refers to me, as unqualifiedly false. Although I am satisfied that no effort will be made to pay said debt or any claim where the claimant was disloyal, yet I desire to publicly place myself upon the record in order that no voter in my district may have any reason to doubt my views upon the subject.

I will, if elected, not only vote against, but oppose in every way in my power the payment of a single dollar of said debt or claims. I will earnestly oppose any measure which directly or indirectly looks towards a payment of the "rebel debt" or which would make such payment possible, and I will never consent that a dollar be paid to any claimant who raised his arm against or was disloyal to the Government.

ALEX. G. COCHRAN.

KING, REED & CO.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1876

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 47½.

BONDS at Frankfort, new 5s, 101½.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 110.

THE Main Exposition building, at Philadelphia, is to remain as a place for permanent exhibition of products of industry.

THE Cainhoy affair, the responsibility for which has been thrown entirely on the blacks, proves to have been started by the Democratic whites, they first shooting an old colored man.

GENERAL E. A. MERRITT, who was HORACE GREELEY'S traveling companion during his southern tour in 1871, declares that GREELEY were he now living would support RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

THE Post ever and anon denies that the Democracy will pay rebel losses. We happen to remember that in 1860 we received equally strong assurance that the Democracy would not go into rebellion.

A PIPE LINE war is on the tapis. The Pennsylvania transportation company is to be brought up on a quo warranto, to show whether its charter should not be forfeited. We have apprehended no danger from any pipe line it would build.

TWEED is still about a week out from New York, and considerable comment is excited by his near approach. The latest is that he will be promptly turned over to the New York State authorities, and that the United States authorities have sought no political advantages because of having him in their power. This is probably the case. It was merely a police duty that was performed, and when ended, this will be all of it.

THE latest reports from Europe, that England will occupy Constantinople, in the event of Russia invading Turkish soil, show the feverish condition of affairs. And yet, it is evident that England is uncertain of her tenure, when an alternative of seizing Egypt is considered. Every day's delay in consummating hostilities makes the prospect of peace the more favorable, but the chances of war are still very strong. And should it come, no one can tell how much scope it will take.

THE State elections, and particularly members of the Legislature, are particularly important this year, in view of the elections of United States Senators. The terms of twenty-five Senators expire on the 4th of March, 1877. Of these nine are Democrats, and their successors will be of the same party. Of the balance CLAYTON, of Arkansas, and ALCORN, of Mississippi, will be succeeded by Democrats. There are several doubtful States, so that it will be well for our people to try to hold the reins well in hand in electing the Legislature.

THE controversy between the HOAR and BUTLER factions, in the Seventh District of Massachusetts, has become exceedingly bitter. Both parties justify their course, —BUTLER claiming to be the regular Simon Pure candidate, and the followers of HOAR that their candidate is the representative of the intelligence and respectability of the party. They also claim that there are 13,000 Republican to 6,000 Democratic votes,—and that they can defeat BUTLER and TARBOX too. If they can do this, no doubt exists that Judge HOAR will act in good faith with his party. The danger and misfortune is that they may drive enough votes over to TARBOX to elect him.

IT turns out, as we predicted, that the Nation Trust people are nearly ready to pay the amount due the city. A few details of arrangement are necessary to complete the preparations. We have always, in opposition to one or two leechy papers, that are ever ready to fight anything that does not bring money to their till, advocated belief in the good faith of Pittsburgh promises. In this case they are sure to be made good. There never was any good reason for dealing with those people in the harsh and unfeeling manner proposed by the leeches, as the stockholders, from the first, sought to act honorably, but were simply swamped by the debts. But it takes an honorable man to deal generously.

A STRANGE circumstance is noted, as to the effect of new commercial routes on the prosperity of trade, accustomed to older and slower routes. It is stated that the opening of the Suez Canal, and the shortening of the India routes, caused great distress at first among the merchants; and that the extension of telegraphic communication to that country was attended by the same general result. The reason for this is found in the fact that the shorter routes develop closer and sharper competition with the sources of supply. Thus it is stated that the opening of the Pacific Railroads for a time seriously embarrassed the merchants of San Francisco who had been accustomed to charge their own prices. When they have adjusted their trade to the new order of things, the result is beneficial.

NEW YORK CITY is evidently to be the centre of fraudulent operations at the East, as Indiana was of the West. As against 72,000 in New York and 50,000 in Brooklyn, that ought to have been registered at the close of the second day for registration, there were 116,998 registered in New York and 68,179 in Brooklyn. Says the Tribune: "The notoriously fraudulent returns of 1868, the year in which Tammany Hall, in Mr. TILDEN'S name, collected the vote of the rest of the State before counting that of New York City, aggregated 156,154, giving Mr. SEYMOUR the State by about 10,000 majority only. Are there not good grounds for grave suspicions that this heavy registration is preliminary to equally bold and glaring election frauds in the present emergency of the Democratic party?"

HEROISM is occasionally found in unexpected persons and places. The New York Tribune alludes to two recent instances of this. One was a druggist's clerk in Savannah, who bravely remained in his place, preparing and dealing out prescriptions, till he, alone, sickened and died. The other, the engineer at Zug's mill, in this city, who, amid the confusion and terror of the disaster, kept hold of the throttle valve of his engine, in the vain hope of giving safety to others, by risking to almost certain destruction, his own life. It then comments: "Why do we tell the story of these two men of whom we are not able to preserve even the names? Simply because their chance for a noble death and a great deed in dying may come to any one of us. In old times knights buckled on their armor and went out in public to win renown; even the crown of martyrdom was won by the help of the heroic glow of lofty excitement, 'a great cloud of witnesses,' tyrants, saints, and angels looking on. Nowadays, men and women have their daily monotonous work set before them. It is plain, hard duty that is called for, seldom feverish heroism. We believe that in the pursuit of that duty men are trained year by year to greater sacrifices; that when life is called for, as in these two cases, it is quietly offered, with no thought of fame or applause, but simply as a matter of course." We may add, such devotion is the sublimity of heroism.

THE decision of the State Supreme Court, yesterday, ousting County Treasurer KILGORE, fell somewhat unexpectedly on the public. The decision is published in full elsewhere, and will repay careful perusal. It turns on the fact that Mr. KILGORE, while elected, was not actually in office when the new Constitution went into effect, therefore, the schedule, which defines the first applications of the law, does not provide for the continuance of Mr. KILGORE. Thus he is illegally in office, because, while elected before the new Constitution went into effect, yet he was not actually in office till after the Constitution went into operation. Hence, he does not come under that phase of the schedule, which provided for those in office when the new Constitution went into effect. A writ of ouster will be at once issued, and Mr. MURRAY will not only be inducted into office, but will be entitled to the salary and emoluments of the office, since the term for which he was elected began. So Mr. KILGORE will lose the advantages so far derived from the office during the present term. New complications will, however, grow out of the decision. Mr. MCCALLIN proposes to continue his candidacy, and, we judge to test whether Mr. MURRAY can legally hold the office, should he be elected. His case, should it be pressed, will turn on the question whether Mr. MURRAY, having been Jury Commissioner, can hold the office of County Treasurer at this time. There are, in such a suit, several possibilities we need not at this moment discuss.

BROWNSVILLE.

The Democratic counties in Western Pennsylvania are, this year, so far as our observation extends, the scene of very unusual Republican activity and hopefulness. Westmoreland Republicans expect to elect a portion of their Legislative ticket. In Greene county we never saw matters look more bright and encouraging than they do this year. On Saturday we had the opportunity of looking in upon the Republicans of Brownsville, in Fayette county, and can testify that they held one of the largest and most enthusiastic mass meetings of the season. It was spoken of as one of the largest ever held in that town. Representatives were present from Uniontown, and the intelligence received leads us to think that Republican enthusiasm is running unprecedentedly high in all the Democratic strongholds of that region. We venture the prediction that Westmoreland, Fayette and Greene, while not able to break away from Democratic control, will give a good account of themselves for HAYES and WHEELER this year.

The trip to and back from Brownsville, at this Indian summer period, is one of the most delightful that can possibly be taken. The Virginia and Charleston railroad can be availed of for a rapid and delightful trip to Monongahela City. It skirts the Monongahela river all the way; and in two hours from leaving Pittsburgh lands one in that beautiful little city, that nestles in the valley of the Monongahela. Thence by boat, it is three hours more to Brownsville. As observed in the down trip on the steamer Elector, the scenery is more rugged, and picturesque, the farther you proceed up the river. Small and thriving towns, as Belle Vernon, with its glass works, California, with a magnificent Normal School building, dot the shores here and there. The stony, rugged character of the country yields to easy grades from the river, and a loamy, sandy soil. Brownsville, with its surrounding towns, has some 4,000 inhabitants, and is a thriving, industrious place. It is located on high ground, and is evidently healthful, as a place of residence. The earnest political spirit and activity of our people there makes of it a centre of promise, as a place where future Republican victories will be obtained.

THE OIL PRODUCERS.

Complaints come from the oil producing region, that the Refiners are holding the market, so far as refined oil is concerned, very stiffly, but are leaving producers to themselves; and that they are having a hard time of it, as against the bear efforts of the exporters. Viewing this entire question as one of national importance, we sympathize with any movement that looks to good prices. We do this, on the simple principle that it is to the interest of this country, with its large foreign debt, to get all for its exports it possibly can. Hence we wish refiners, producers, and all others engaged in the oil trade, to get all out of the product possible, because it is chiefly an article of export, and the higher the price, so long as it can hold the market, the better for this country.

As we understand it, the Refiners are strong through combination. After years of fighting, and at serious loss,—Europe being supplied with petroleum, without profit to this country, the fighting among refiners has ceased, and so the market is controlled. Why not the same policy among producers? If there are weak producers, who cannot afford to hold their oil, under such a combination, the oil might be pooled, the weak holders sustained, and prices maintained. The certainty that oil will command a given price is security to those who sustain weak producers. Or, whether there is a combination or not, it is largely to the interest of producers to maintain rates. Refining is a business, possessed of regular and well defined profits, and hence can be made profitable, whether the market is high or low, so that it is regular and certain. The chief pressure of low rates and of fluctuations fall on producers; hence the necessity of so controlling the crude market, that whatever the price is, it shall be regular and comparatively good. That this can be done is entirely certain, as the demand is fixed, and steadily increasing, while the oil territory is limited, and thoroughly known. We have held, and do hold, that this question is of more importance to the country at large than it is to individuals. If we send oil abroad, and receive for it but about one-half what we ought, it is not merely the refiners' or producers' loss, but that of the country at large, as well. We are interested in the general increase of the wealth of the country, and must be, so long as we have a foreign debt. We therefore hope that any entanglements that may attend the oil trade may be happily disposed of, the producers and refiners sustained, good prices commanded, and an inflow of wealth secured to the country.

OUR COUNTY TICKET.

In the absorbing interest, now concentrated on the Presidential and Congressional tickets, we should not forget our county and Legislative candidates. We have an exceptionally good Legislative ticket, both as regards the Senatorial and House nominations. Senator MCNEILL, of Allegheny, has filled one term, to the entire satisfaction of his constituents, and will receive, as he deserves, re-election. He is one of those staunch, solid, reliable men, who can always be depended on to be in their place, and do their duty. JOHN C. NEWMEYER, of the Forty-fourth District, has also filled one term, and with so much credit to himself, that he was elected President pro tem. of the Senate. He has been clear-headed, incorruptible, attentive to duties, and an excellent Senator in every particular. JOSEPH M. GAZZAM, of the Forty-third District, is a new candidate, but is widely known as an amiable gentleman, a lawyer of large practice, a pure minded man, and capable of representing his District with exceptional ability. JOHN GILFILLAN is the candidate of the Forty-fifth District, embracing the South Side townships. His strength at home, and his pure character, make him a strong candidate.

Our Assembly Districts are also excellently provided for in the pureness and strength of candidates. In the First District are JAMES D. WALKER, HENRY M. LONG and WILLIAM H. GRAHAM—the two latter experienced and influential members of the last House, who made reputation by acting out their honest and decided convictions, always on the side of the people and the right. Mr. WALKER is a new but very worthy candidate. In the Second District, embracing the old city wards of this city, are R. S. FRAZER and WILLIAM J. FLINN, both new, but strong candidates. No regular nomination has been made in the Third District, but Mr. TAYLOR is out as an Independent candidate, and deserves the support of all honest Republicans and Democrats. In the Fourth District we have J. MITCHELL and S. MCELROY on the North Side, both residing at Lawrenceville, and A. H. WEAVER and J. M. SCHAFER, South Side. All are known in Republican circles, and will poll the full party vote, and thus are sure of election. In the Fifth and Sixth Districts, which embrace the country townships, are JOSEPH A. STONE and W. H. MCGILL, VINCENT MILLER, and WILLIAM HILL. All good men and true.

In the general county ticket B. F. KENNEDY stands first, as the candidate for Prothonotary. It is useless to refer particularly to him, as "Doc." KENNEDY is thoroughly known and so popular that Democrats and Republicans alike deem it a pleasure to vote for him. He is apparently cut out for the office he fills, understands it through and through, and is so valuable and efficient an officer that the rule of rotation should be suspended in his case, and he left in office for the good of the county, so long as he does as well as he has done. At all events, no one doubts his election. Mr. MCCALLIN, of the Seventh ward, has a clear run for Treasurer. JOSEPH A. THOMAS for Coroner, JOHN KNOWLAND for Jury Commissioner, and JOHN HERRON for Director of the Poor, are also safe. We cite the list of our candidates, not that we fear their success, but that our people may have them clearly in mind, and not allow them to be shadowed by the National canvass. We particularly urge, however, that no lack of attention be given our Legislative ticket. Let us remember two years ago.

POLITICAL NOTES.

EVERY rebel jailer or guard who was at Andersonville, Belle Isle and Libby Prison supports Samuel J. Tilden.

GENERAL SHERMAN says "South Carolina has caused about enough trouble in this country." He is right.

IF there is one thing that shocks the Democratic mind more than another, it is the news that the fall trade is opening briskly.

IN a speech in Fairfield, S. C., on the 16th inst., Wade Hampton told the negroes that if they vote for Radicals they must look to Radicals for support.

WHILE the nation was struggling in the throes of civil war, and needed every dollar that could be raised, Mr. Tilden was defrauding it by swearing to false returns, and publicly predicting that the war was a failure.

WHILE the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency was helping by the "diffusion of correct political information," to overthrow his country, Gov. Hayes was on the Southern fields, doing his duty faithfully as a soldier to save it.

PROVE that a leader in the Republican party is corrupt and you damage the party. Do the same thing for the Democratic party and nobody cares. Everybody recognizes the propriety of having the party led by its Kellys, Tweeds, Morrisseys et al.

AS THE time for election comes nearer, the independent voter is more and more inclined to give his ballot to the party which, with all its faults, has been the truest and best the country has ever seen. He wants a change, but not a change for the worse.

WM. B. OGDEN, a business partner of Mr. Tilden, stated in 1862 that the income of Mr. Tilden from returning fees alone was at least $60,000 per year. Yet at this time the present Democratic candidate for the Presidency was making oath that his income did not exceed $7,118, and cheating the Government out of the taxes due from him.

IT would be a curious commentary on the honesty of the nation to have in the Presidential chair a man who achieved notoriety as the author of the famous Credit Mobilier law. Mr. Tilden, as shown by the evidence given before the Investigating Committee, was the man who drew up that scheme, and he was handsomely paid for it by the parties in interest.

IF THE South will pay for the war her leaders brought on, if the South will restore the husband to the widow, the brother to the brother, the son to his parents, the Government will consider its claim for $2,503,622,386. But never, never will the Republican party allow the disabled Confederate Congress to come to Washington and draw the amount of these unjust claims from the United States Treasury.

COMPARE the bogus "reform" of Tilden with the solid work of Bristow. Tilden made an immense clamor about canal reform, has traded on it for three years, and the total outcome is one man convicted, three suits brought, no money recovered to the State, but over one hundred thousand dollars spent for investigating commissions and lawyer's fees. Secretary Bristow made his preparations quietly, and in a few months had secured indictments of 170 men, the conviction of 133, caused twelve others to fly the country, recovered over half a million dollars, and had suits pending for the recovery of three times that amount. The whole of this work was done at a cost of only $25,000. Such is the difference between Tilden reform and the genuine article.

LATER returns from the Ohio canvass reveal astonishing Democratic frauds. There can be no doubt that Mr. Banning was elected by his 75 majority over Judge Stanley Matthews through fraud. Information has reached here that one man offers to prove that he was to have been paid $1,000 for having one gang repeat 16 times. A thorough canvass of one precinct of one ward shows that of 15 persons who voted in that single precinct at the late election not the slightest trace can be found. The old residents, the political leaders, and the saloon-keepers of the ward have no knowledge of them. It appears by investigation that nearly the same ratio of frauds was maintained in two or three other wards in that district. Indeed it is doubtful whether a Democrat on the Hamilton county ticket was elected by honest votes.

THE Secretary of the Treasury, in answer to a resolution of inquiry from Congress at the last session, sent in a detailed statement of the receipts and disbursements of the Government from January 1st, 1834, to January 30th, 1875, showing the amount of defalcations and the ratio of losses per $1,000 handled under the several administrations. The losses on each $1,000 were as follows:

1834-37—Jackson, Democratic	$10 55
1838-41—Van Buren, Democratic	21 15
1842-45—Harrison and Tyler, Whig and Democratic	10 37
1845-49—Polk, Democratic	8 34
1849-53—Taylor and Fillmore, Whig	7 64
1853-57—Pierce, Democratic	5 86
1857-61—Buchanan, Democratic	6 98
1861-65—Lincoln, Republican	1 41
1865-69—Johnson, Republican Dem.	48
1869-73—Grant, Republican	40
1873-75—Grant, Republican	26

These are the official figures, and they embody a conclusive and crushing answer to the Democratic charges. The statement of the Secretary made a further comparison for the twenty-six years preceding Republican administration and for the sixteen years of Republican rule. The ratio of loss on each $1,000 for the two periods was as follows:

Previous to Republican rule	$9 02
Under Republican rule	78

JOURNALISTIC HUMOR.

The Newspaper Paragraphist.

The newspaper paragraphist has had the misfortune to incur Mr. Bayard Taylor's displeasure, apparently because he jests whenever and about whatever subject he chooses, and not always in a refined way. Therefore Mr. Taylor puts him in the lowest class of American humorists, as probably he would put Rabelais and Swift in relation to such men as Fenelon and Addison in the humor of the world. Never was such coarse and brutal jesting about birth, life, death, and the beyond as has been made by these renowned wits. From the ash-barrel and worse to Fate, nothing was too little or big for Swift and Rabelais; and therefore let not the newspaper constructor of paragraphs be cast down by what one says who has ere now felt so "proud to enter the sacred guild of authors" that he had to write a book about it. And in the first place, and as regards "American humorists," their work is, on the whole, better than that of "humorists" in any other part of the world. The subject is hackneyed, but let any one who wishes to be convinced of the truth read Punch and Fun and Judy, with their endless sarcasm about servant girls and cabmen, and their idle parliamentary stuff and labored puns; or look at the French Petit Journal Pour Rire, or Journal Amusant, with their filth and sneers at married life; or the German Kladderadatsch, with its lumbering fun which is more nearly a mild Wahnsinn than anything else, and then let him compare any or all of them with the American funny man's work, and he will not be in doubt as to which is to be preferred. Hosea Bigelow's excellent work is known and liked in England, but aside from Lowell and Irving there is not one of the American humorists of what might be fairly called the half-stilted or moralizing school who finds any recognition abroad. But Artemus Ward—called by Charles Reade "Artemus the delicious"—was in his day known and read and liked of all men abroad. And Artemus Ward was a newspaper paragraphist and began his work as such on a Cleveland journal. There was very little of pathos in Artemus, such as, in Bret Harte, makes Mr. Taylor appreciative: he talked very much like the village idiot to his audience at the town pump, and his pride was in half-incoherent shrewdness. John Phœnix, the pioneer of all such work, loomed up first in the San Diego Herald, and there was mighty little pathos in him; Orpheus C. Kerr—was not he of the newspaper tribe? And yet no eye was ever dimmed as it read of the Mackeral Brigade and the famous architectural steed. Nor was Doesticks given to the melting mood when he wrote his capital newspaper screeds that made us all so merry in the years gone by—as the humorist of the Tribune would say. Indeed the mistake made by Mr. Taylor assumes strange proportions when the name of George D. Prentice, that prince among the writers of newspaper paragraphs, is recalled; of Miles O'Reilly, whose yet green grave is in Greenwood, unmarked save by the flowers left there on Decoration Day; of George Arnold with his Macarone papers; of poor Henry Clapp, the King of Bohemia, whose pen stuck men who yet bleed at the wound; of Fitz James O'Brien and all that brilliant, dissolute set of the old Leader days? And shall no account be taken of Montgomery Bailey of the Danbury News, who placed an obscure country journal on the news-stands of the metropolis; of Bierce, whose reckless humor was too strong even for California, and wafted him away on its wings to London and the Tomahawk; of Charles Dawson Shanly, whose kindly humor lighted up old Vanity Fair? Charles Heber Clark—Max Adeler—and Francis Wells, of the Philadelphia Bulletin, are surely of some value as humorists. But time would fail to speak of all the men personally cooped up in a generality by Mr. Taylor. There is Lewis, of the Detroit Free Press; Burdett, of the Burlington Hawkeye; and Locke, of the Toledo Blade, and a whole host of other men who have done or are doing good humorous work in American newspapers, and they will be followed by others

"Till the sun grows cold
And the stars are old,

So Mr. Bayard Taylor's remarks about the newspaper paragraphist "won't wash." The American humorist, if so be he lives and moves and has his precarious being, is essentially a newspaper man. Mr. Taylor has probably been put all awry by reading the Tribune's humorous paragraphs.

MR. TUPPER IN A BROOKLYN PULPIT.

Reading His Poem on "Immortality" in Mr. Talmage's Church.

[New York Tribune.]

An audience even larger than usual, and composed of more varied elements, assembled yesterday morning in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, the church of the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage. It had been announced that Martin Farquhar Tupper, of England, would read his poem upon "Immortality," one of his best known productions, and the curiosity to see and hear an author of whom so much has recently been said, crowded the large building in every part. Every seat was occupied and several hundred persons remained standing until the close of the services. Mr. Talmage, after the preliminary exercises, introduced with a few words of compliment "the poet who, inspired by God, had written a poem which was a sermon." Mr. Tupper, who had exhibited a slight nervousness during the introductory exercises, rose and advanced to the desk. In appearance he presented many of the characteristics which are generally associated with Englishmen. His figure is short but somewhat thickly set, his beard is full and gray, and his hair, still whiter, is curly and as glossy as satin floss; his face, like the faces of most elderly Englishmen, is rubicund. Mr. Tupper in a voice of pleasant quality, but trembling a little with apparent emotion, stated briefly his purpose in reading to an American audience a poem which was published nearly forty years ago. He disclaimed all thought of self-seeking, and added that his performance would be simple and direct, with no further attempt at oratory than the feeling of each moment made natural. He said that the poem was an argument; it was the address of a dying man to dying men, and related to their common immortality. But no less was it directed toward the considerations which attended and influenced life. Mr. Tupper said he hoped to give a better direction to the thoughts of honest skeptics, for whom he felt a sincere respect. Having thus prepared the audience to receive the poem in the spirit in which it would be read, Mr. Tupper, after a moment of silent prayer, began the recitation. Those who had expected to enjoy a notable performance in elocution were doubtless disappointed, for Mr. Tupper made no attempt at ambitious declamation, but kept his promise to speak simply. Although his delivery had not in a very marked degree the peculiarities often prominent in English speech, the broad sound given to "a," the rising inflection, and the general accent belonged unmistakably to an Englishman.

If the poet's manner of speaking was not artistic, it certainly was natural, and had the merit of clearness, and the audience remained attentive to the close. The length of the poem prevented it being read in full, but very little was left out which would have added to its impressiveness, or which was essential to the argument. After the close of the services many persons remained to get a near view of the amiable author, and several were presented to him by Mr. Talmage. Mr. Tupper said he should remain in the country about six months, during which time he should travel extensively through the States, giving readings from his own works. He had never read the poem on Immortality before in public, and was gratified by the attention which had followed it that morning. The church was a very easy one to speak in and he had read without effort. He remarked upon the criticism of his works which his second visit to the United States had called out, and said that a good deal had been ascribed to him which he had never written. "It is rather unfair," he good-naturedly added, "for the critics to write a poem for me and then tell the public how very bad it is."

Dio Lewis' Nightmare.

"Ahoo! Ow! Yah! Ahoo! Git out! O-o-o-h! my!" were the frightful sounds which awoke the occupants of a sleeping car on the Union Pacific Railroad the other night. There was considerable agitation among the passengers until the porter came along and explained that it was only a gentleman who had the nightmare in one of the upper berths. The gentleman proved to be Dio Lewis, who had been eating escalloped oysters, doughnuts, lobster-salad and Boston bucks for supper, and who dreamed that he had received a Democratic nomination for Congress in Massachusetts.

—A story is told, partly at the expense of Edwin Booth, the actor, who is now playing at San Francisco, and is not so apocryphal but that it will be enjoyed: "An agricultural admirer of the actor brought an enormous watermelon to the stage door as a present to him, and was admitted. He stood at the upper wings waiting for Booth to come on, when he suddenly recollected that he had left his team untied. He laid the melon down and rushed out. In the meantime the melon rolled to the center of the stage, down to where Booth and McCullough were in a very earnest colloquy as Iago and Othello. It much astonished Iago by a blow on the legs, and, being kicked, rolled to the side of the stage and fell off. The orchestra made it a prisoner, and at the close of the act ate it."

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

There were no special developments in financial circles yesterday, the market maintaining its features as given in the last report. That is, a firmer, stronger market, with a more decided demand, and stiffer rates. The rates of discount have not advanced, but are more firmly maintained, and loans are made on closer time. The demand fully justifies this, but should the European war cloud disappear, we imagine rates would be more moderate again, and the demand less urgent. The work of negotiating the Nation Trust loans, with which to pay the city, has served to make our savings banks a little more stringent than usual. Affairs in banking circles are in healthy condition, and the business outlook is also quite flattering.

THE NATIONAL PAPER CURRENCY.

The total volume of the paper currency, November 1, 1866, was $710,748,327. One year afterward, at the corresponding date, it had fallen to $687,024,774. From that it rose steadily every year until in 1874, at the above-mentioned date, it reached $781,388,211. But again the reduction set in, and November 1, 1875, the total was $762,204,483, and the 1st of September, 1876, it was $725,589 524. These figures include all the notes outstanding, but it is an error to suppose they were all in circulation, since the experience thus far in the redemption and extinguishment of the fractional currency proves that the waste and destruction of paper money exceed all ordinary estimates. It will not be known how much of the greenback currency has been destroyed unless the work of extinguishment is undertaken.

As the fractional notes never exceeded fifty millions of dollars and a full supply of subsidiary silver coin is estimated at not less than one hundred millions, it would seem clear that there was really no inflation about the former, and that, in fact, they never supplied the popular wants. As regards the greenbacks, also, the inflation was to a large extent imaginary, for besides the waste and destruction referred to, the amount of these notes held as bank reserves and in public treasuries and other hoards did not really leave any great sum for general circulation. The difference between the lowest point and the highest in the total volume of paper money in use was as follows:

November 1, 1874, ...	781,388,211
Difference, ...	94,363,437

This was not sufficient to cause any actual inflation in a country so vast as ours, and with such an immense activity in all the relations of life, and with such an enormous mass of business always going on. Indeed it was not the currency that did the mischief, but the use made of the figures by speculative financiers, who invariably magnify the situation whatever it may be. Eventually under the regime of specie payments, we shall no doubt have coin and paper money together to twice the highest of the above totals and suffer from no inflation with it. Those who dispute have only to look at our experience with the subsidiary silver coin. There can be but little doubt that if we had a full supply of gold coin in circulation there would be a concurrent demand for paper money sufficient to keep afloat the whole mass of greenbacks and bank notes.

A PROTECTIONIST AGITATION

is raging in Austria and Germany that promises to secure the abrogation or material modification of the commercial treaties between those countries and Great Britain which, under pretence of reciprocity, have ruined many flourishing industries in the two Empires mentioned. Prior to those treaties the city of Brunn, Austria, had 148 cloth factories and now has only 98, no less than 5,000 workmen formerly employed in those mills having emigrated to Russia, where manufactures are protected. The production of wool has diminished and the fine flocks of Hungary and Moravia are allowed to run down. Although wages in Austria are one hundred per cent. lower than in the American mills, Austria cannot compete with British cloths. Under such circumstances, it is a mystery how we manage to do it. In Germany the abolition of the duties on imported wool has caused the number of sheep to diminish from an aggregate of 50,000,000, in the year 1850, to 25,000,000 at the present time. An organization, with 25,000 members, has been formed in Germany to resist the renewal of the commercial treaties, and Prince Bismarck is said to sympathize with it.

NEW YORK, October 23, 1876.

Money closed easy at 2@3. Prime mercantile paper 4@7. The customs receipts were $304,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $19,000. The clearings were $24,000,000. Sterling was weak at 482¾@483¾. Gold declined to 109⅞ in the morning, but there was more activity towards the close of the day on dispatches announcing Roumania's probable alliance with Russia, and the price advanced to 110. The opening figure was 109⅞. The carrying rates were 1 and ½ per cent., and the borrowing rates flat, 1, 2 and 3 per cent. per annum, and 1-64 per cent. per diem. Governments closed steady. In railroad bonds the leading feature was Hannibal & St. Joe convertible, which rose from 80 to 81 on unusually large business. Union Pacific firsts declined to 105¾. Chicago & Northwest consolidated gold coupons remained firm at 95½. Milwaukee & St. Paul, La Crosse Division, sold at 102¾, do 7 3-10 at 98½, and consolidated sinking funds at 88½@88¾. State bonds were neglected. The stock market opened firm, and some of the leading shares advanced. Subsequently, however, a weaker feeling set in, and there was a decline of ¼ to 1½ per cent., the latter on St. Paul shares. After meridian the market became steady, with some recovery in prices. There was increased activity and a general advance in stocks, owing to a combination of causes. A cable telegram from London reported Roumania as having resolved upon declaring her independence. Hence the war fever was revived on the Stock Exchange. Another cause for the increasing firmness of prices was reports to the effect that the negotiations for the settlement of the railroad war had made such progress that the end was likely to be reached this week. Still another favorable cause was large receipts of grain at Chicago. In final sales the market showed an advance of 1-4 to 2 per cent. from the lowest point of the day. Hannibal & St. Joseph common advanced from 14¾ to 16½, and preferred from 27½ to 29 1-2. Lake Shore rose from 60 to 63 3-4, and closed at the latter price. Michigan Central advanced from 47½ to 48 1-2, with the last sales at 48 1-4. Western Union rose from 71 3-4 to 72½, Pacific Mail from 24¾ to 25, Erie from 11 1-4 to 11 1-2, Northwest common from 40 1-2 to 40 3-4, preferred from 62 7-8 to 63 1-8, Rock Island from 101 3-4 to 102 1-4, St. Paul common from 28 3-4 to 29, preferred from 59 3-8 to 59 7-8, Ohios from 11 1-8 to 11 1-2, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western from 77 1-2 to 78 1-4, and New Jersey Central from 36 1-2 to 37. Most of these stocks closed firm at the improvement. The transactions were 128,000 shares, of which 4,500 were Pacific Mail, 21,000 Western Union, 11,000 Northwests, 4,000 Rock Island, 17,000 St. Pauls, 7,000 Erie, 38,000 Lake Shore, 4,500 Michigan Central, 5,000 Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and 4,000 New Jersey Central.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS—WEEKLY REVIEW.

Our merchants generally are doing a very fair business, although it is complained that trade is not as brisk as it usually is and should be at this season of the year. The market for Grain and Flour continues very firm, and it looks as if Breadstuffs were destined to rule higher. The Grocery trade continues rather tame, orders are mostly small, although there is a very fair business in the aggregate, and both Sugar and Coffee continue firm. The demand for Provisions is light, as it always is at this particular time, but there has been little or no change in prices. Pig Iron continues in steady consumptive demand and firm, but unchanged. Petroleum continues very dull, and prices for Crude are much lower. Wool is in very light supply in first hands, and prices are firm and tending upward. Butter dull and lower. Cheese in steady demand but unchanged; while Eggs are in light supply and higher.

ALE—There is no change to note in prices and trade is generally reported dull, like everything else, affected by the hard times. X $8 ꝑ bbl to the city and $9 to country; XX $10; India $11. half bbls in proportion.

ASHES—High test Soda Ash, 3a3¼; low test, 2½a2¾; Manganese, 6a6½; Arsenic, 5c; Nitrate Soda, 3½a3¾; Fluor Spar, 1¾a2; Black Lead, 3¾a4.

APPLES—Continue in good supply, and notwithstanding the demand is increasing in consequence of smaller fruits going out of season, prices are no better and not likely to be soon; quotable at $1a1,50 per bbl in a jobbing way.

BUTTER—The receipts continue liberal, and with the supply largely in excess of the demand and steadily accumulating, holders are anxious to realize, prices since the date of our last general report have further declined. The warm weather curtailed the consumption somewhat, and it is fair to infer, in view of the continued liberal receipts, that the eastern markets are also overstocked, otherwise it is not likely that shippers would send such large consignments to this point. Prices as compared with this day week have declined 3a5c ꝑ lb, and unless there is an increased demand or diminished receipts there will be a still further decline. Complaint is still made that a large proportion of the Butter coming forward is not only of common quality but is badly put up, and shippers who make such consignments expecting the commission merchants to obtain top prices for it will be badly disappointed. We urge upon shippers the importance of a good article and also of putting it up nicely, as Butter is an article about which consumers generally are very fastidious, and frequently the sale of good stock is very much damaged by dirty looking cloths and packages. Prime to choice rolls, which two weeks ago were selling at 27a28c, are now dull at 22a23c, and prime solid packed cannot fairly be quoted above 18a20; common do very dull at 10a12½. Choice dairy rolls, 25a26; fancy creamery, 30.

BELTING—The market for this article remains steady, and the demand is now confined chiefly to that made from good bark tanned Leather, most parties having found that the several patent and chemical tannages of leather for belting purposes, at the lower prices at which such are sold, are dearer in the end. We quote:

Inch.	Per Foot	Inch.	Per Foot
1	$ 06	5	$ 54
1½	12	5½	60
2	13	6	66
2½	24	7	78
3	30	8	90
3½	38	10	1 14
4	42	12	1 38
4½	48	14	1 62

Discount 15 to 30 per cent. as to quality and quantity.

BRUSHES—White Scrubbing, $10a11 ꝑ gross Gray, $11a20; White Bristle, $22a36; Shoe, $13a30; Horse (wood backs) $22a66; Horse (leather backs) 45a135; Extra white-wash, $36a75; Common do, $24a60.

BROOM HANDLES—We quote in a jobbing way:

No 1 Plain	$16 00 ꝑ thousand
No 1 Painted	24 00	do
Toy Painted	12 50	do

BROOMS—We note a moderate demand at the new price list. Manufacturers in anticipation of the new crop of Corn have reduced prices to the lowest point known since before the war. We quote "Union" factory as follows:

No 1 Hurl—plain handle	$1,50
No 2 Hurl do	1,75
No 3 Hurl—painted	2,00
No 4 Hurl do	2,25
No 5 Hurl	2,50
No 6 Hurl	2,75
No 3 carpet—velvet finish	3,25
No 4 carpet do	3,50
No 5 carpet do	3,75
Wisps (6, 8 and 10 inch)	1 25a1 50
Toy Brooms	1 25a1 50

BROOM CORN—Choice grades of hurl been scarce and in demand at prices ranging from 6½ to 7, as to quality. Choice green brush that will work up in fair demand at 5¾a6 in round lots; with sales at 6½ in job lots. Choice medium in fair supply and offerings at 5¾ for green, and 5a5½ for red tipped. Covers and insiding selling at prices ranging from 4 to 5 as to quality and color. Crooked, 2¼a3½.

BEANS—Prime new navy are held at $1,50 per bushel—but few are in market as yet. Old are nearly cleaned up and what are still offered are of such poor quality that they cannot be quoted at over $1,20a1.25 ꝑ bushel.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Beginning to arrive pretty freely and meets a fair demand at 3½a4c ꝑ pound.

CANNED GOODS—There is nothing doing excepting in a wholesale way—the consuming season is not likely to open up until about the first of the year. Tomatoes are held with considerable tenacity by packers at $1 75a1,80, but we understand that some of our jobbers, who bought early in the season prior to the advance, are willing to sell at rates packers are now asking, and this being the case, it is not likely that prices will go any higher. Peaches and Corn quiet and unchanged.

CIDER—The market continues very dull, with considerable offering; quotable at $3,50a4,50 ꝑ bbl, including bbls.

CHESTNUTS—Very dull, but it looks as if prices had about touched bottom; $2,75a3 per bu.

CRANBERRIES—$9a11 per bbl.

CHEESE—The market continues fairly active, and while there has been no further advance since the date of our last general report the market is firm at quotations. Prime Ohio Factory—September make—13¼a13½ to the wholesale trade, and 1c additional in a jobbing way.

CEMENT, &c., &c.—There is a fair business within the range of the following quotations: Cement—Rosendale, $2.50a2,75; New Lisbon, $1,80a2,05; Portland, $6a7 ꝑ bbl; Youghiogheny, $1,75a2; Louisville, $1,90a2,10. Calcined Plaster—French's $4,75a4; Land Plaster, $2,25a2,50. Lime, $1,35a1,50. White Sand, $1,40a1,50 ꝑ bbl.

DRIED FRUIT.—Prime new Apples, if heavy packed, 200 to 225 lbs to the bbl, are in good request for export at 5c ꝑ lb. The demand may not continue long, and shippers should take advantage of the present opportunity to get rid of all they can and ship promptly. There is no local inquiry, and when the export demand is supplied there will be a perfect glut, as the quantity dried this year is very large. No movement in other Dried Fruits as yet.

EGGS—There has been an advance of 2a3c ꝑ doz during the past week; we now quote fresh stock at 27a28c; and pickeled at 22a23. The receipts have been more liberal during the past day or two, and there is no question the enhanced cost will curtail the demand.

FLOUR—We have to report a very firm market, which has been strengthened during the week by the prospect of a foreign war and a sharp advance in the value of Wheat. Millers generally have advanced prices from 25 to 50c ꝑ bbl within the past few days, and dealers have been forced to do likewise. The fact of the matter is, our dealers, in justice to themselves, should have put up prices several weeks ago, but some of them refused to advance until after they had exhausted their stock bought prior to the advance, and others who were so disposed were prevented by these from so doing. There is no question that the market as regards this important staple is steadily gaining in strength, for which various reasons are assigned; one is, that the Wheat crop of the country did not yield as largely as expected, having been damaged in various sections by rain and insects, and, moreover, there is every prospect of a heavy export demand, war or no war, as it is very evident that Europe will want all of our surplus. Our advices from all the distributing points in this country, have indicated increased firmness during the past week in sympathy with Wheat, and while we may be mistaken, we should not be surprised if there was a still further appreciation before another week rolls around. Quotations in a jobbing way, may be given as follows: Winter wheat, $6,50a6,75, for good to choice, and the same figures will answer for same grades of spring wheat; choice winters, $7; patent process, $8a9; this appears to have taken the place of white wheat. Rye flour, $4,50a5 per barrel.

FEATHERS—Sales job lots, 57; repacked, 60a63.

GRAIN—The grain markets continue firm, and notwithstanding the receipts are increasing there has been no accumulation as yet and prices still manifest an advancing tendency. Wheat is very firm and somewhat excited in consequence of the prospect of a foreign war, and as there is every indication of a heavy export demand and the crop in this country did not turn out as large as expected, having been injured in various sections by insects, drouth and storms, the outlook at the present writing not only warrants the prediction that current rates will be sustained but that a still further appreciation is not improbable. Millers hereabouts are not disposed to offer more than $1,24 a1,25 for good Penna, Ohio and Indiana red, but we opine that they will not be able to buy much as sellers can do better elsewhere. Dealers inform us that it is held at 6a8c ꝑ bu. more at the source of supply, and it is pretty evident that our millers will be obliged to pay more than they are now offering. We are reliably informed that millers in Eastern Ohio have been paying $1,17a1,20 for Wheat for some time past. The receipts of Oats have been more liberal during the past week, but with a steady demand there has been no accumulation as yet and prices are fully maintained; 38a40c for mixed to white. It was expected that as soon as the receipts commenced to increase that prices would recede, but thus far these expectations have not been realized, and furthermore, it does not look as though they would be. The market for Corn, although steady, has undergone but little change since the date of our last weekly review; Ear is in rather better supply and easier in tone, while Shelled is scarce and firm. Old ear quotable at 58a60c; new, 48a50c; old Shelled, 58a60c. The receipts and offerings of Rye continue light, and the market may be quoted steady at about 70. Barley is firmer, with rather more inquiry, and good stock is tending upward; prime quotable at $1,10a1,15; No. 2, $1a1,05; common to fair, 90a95 cents. Brewers generally have not bought much as yet.

GROCERIES—The stock of Rio Coffee in hands of importers continues light, and the market is firm, but quiet; jobbers generally buying sparingly, and it is evident that they are apprehensive of lower prices as soon as the new crop commences to come forward. Sugars continue very firm, and we have advanced our quotations on refined goods ¼c per lb, and it looks as if they would go still higher. Molasses and Syrups continue quiet and unchanged. New crop Molasses will soon put in an appearance. There is a very fair demand for Rice and Teas, but no quotable change in prices.

LEATHER—The market in general remains as last reported. In rough Leather there has been an improved demand, but prices remain unchanged. Harness is in fair demand. Calf skins are in moderate request, but to sell round lots or at wholesale, prices would have to be put low. Kip, if light weights, are improving, but heavy are still dull and low. PROVISIONS—There is a fair demand for this season of the year, and prices are keeping up better than expected, in consequence of the war rumors. Our latest advices, however, from Chicago and Cincinnati at this writing, report these markets weak and dull. Hogs are keeping up higher than was generally expected, and packers in view of the fact that there was but little money made last year, are loth to pay current prices.

ALLEGHENY LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CATTLE.

The number on sale was less than that of last Monday in point of numbers, but the average quality was better; indeed, it is seldom we have as good cattle as there were on sale to-day. With a light demand, butchers averring that the warm weather has further curtailed the consumption of beef, particularly during the close of last week, the market was exceedingly dull to-day, with prices from ½ to ¼ lower, and even at the reduction the supply was considerably in excess of the demand, as there were quite a number left over unsold. Dealers all reported the market as having been the worst they have experienced at these yards for some time; at 11 o'clock some of them were not more than half sold out, and others had not done that well.

A few very choice cattle brought 5¾a6c, probably not more than 15 or 20 out of the entire supply; prime cattle were offered freely at 5a5½, and butchers who kill good stock, had no difficulty in getting all they wanted at the figures last named. Indeed, there were very good cattle sold at 4a4¾. Bulls, of which there were quite a number, brought 2½a3¼; and fat Cows may be quoted at 3a3½.

Veal Calves continue scarce, and they are still bringing full prices in consequence, 5½a6½c per lb; however, there are not many wanted.

The stock on sale was reported as follows:

RIVER NEWS.

State of the Rivers, Movements of Steamboats, &c.

THE stage of water last evening was 2 feet and stationary. Cloudy and warm, with an occasional light shower of rain.

THE Fanchon has laid up at Cincinnati to wait for more water.

MESSRS. Andrew and W. W. Ackley, are back from the Centennial.

THE beacon light steamer, Lily, departed yesterday. Pilot—Jas. Hamilton.

THE Salt Valley from Ironton, arrived and departed with a good trip each way.

CAPT. JAS. REES, JR. is back from Memphis, where he delivered the Hard Cash according to contract.

THE price paid by Cole's Circus Co. for the Ella Hughes was $5100 cash. A report that $2000 was the price and another $7000 was erroneous.

THE Carondelet went into New Orleans with 584 bales of cotton and 4750 sks of seed. It is the largest trip delivered at New Orleans this season.

THE sternwheel steamer Sallie, which sunk at Franklin, La., last Sunday, was built two years ago at Algiers, La., and once ran in the Atchafalaya trade.

THE Arkansas Belle struck the Kentucky Rock on the Grand Chain and broke several timbers. She did not sink, and will be taken to Paducah and thoroughly repaired.

STEAM was raised at Cincinnati, on Saturday, on Capt. Jas. Nichols' new steamer, Florence Meyer. She will load Friday for New Orleans after the U. P. Schenck.

THE Carrie Brooks grounded Sunday evening at the Trap, and she had not made her appearance up to the time we left the landing last evening, although momentarily expected.

OUR dispatches of yesterday reported the sinking of the Rosa Miller near Swan Lake, but gave no particulars. She was built here by Capt. John Woodburn, and was, if we mistake not, in command of Capt. J. J. Darragh.

CAPT. Sam Painter, of Kittson's International Line of Red River steamers has reached St. Paul from his summer's labors in the far North. Capt. Painter formerly resided in Cincinnati, and was a mate in the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade

THE Memphis Avalanche of Saturday says: A case involving the legality of wharfage collections was tried before Judge Helskell's court, in this city, ten days or so since. It is expected that he will deliver an opinion on its merits to-day. Numerous boatmen are interested, and the decision is anxiously looked for.

THE James W. Gaff was not badly injured and none of her freight was in any way damaged by her mishap on the Grand Chain. As soon as she got off the rocks (which caught her just amidships) her butts and seams sprung back and closed so much that she took very little water, and it at no time rose above the dunnage.

THE Cincinnati Commercial of Saturday says: Steam was raised yesterday on Capt. H. U. Hart's new steamer A. C. Donnally. Her machinery worked satisfactorily. Her Custom-house measurement is as follows: Length 282 feet; breadth 41.05 feet; depth 7 feet; tonnage length 270.06 feet; under tonnage 675.70 tons; engine room 218.05; steerage 151.20 tons; total, 1,045 95 tons. Her carrying capacity will be upwards of 1,400 tons.

THE light-house steamer Alice, Capt. M. H. Crapster, returned to St. Louis Wednesday, from a trip down the river, having made the following changes in lights: Erected new lights at Dyke No. 2 and Dyke No. 3, on Illinois side; moved Missouri shore light down one-half mile above quarantine; new light at Horsetail; moved Forest Home light down to head of field; put floating light on wreck of Glendale; the light is a floating light about 75 feet from the outer end of dyke.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch under date of 21st says: Business to-day was active, and the Fannie Tatum and Atlantic and barges, which were loading for New Orleans, were obliged to refuse freight. They both clear at daylight in the morning. The Grand Republic goes next Wednesday and will be followed in turn by the E. O. Standard, Glencoe and Commonwealth. Rates will probably be advanced on Monday. Coms. Davidson and Hawkins, ex-President of the K. N. Line, left for Galena on the Golden Eagle this evening. He is a Director of the Company, and came down to attend the quarterly meeting. Com. R. C. Gray goes east on Monday. The Iron Mountain leaves for Pittsburgh about Thursday with 5 barges of iron ore.

HOME NEWS.

The probabilities for to-day are rising barometer, warm, southerly winds, shifting to colder west or north, partly cloudy weather, and possibly occasional rains.

The Lost Boy.

Willie Gray, the lad who was reported lost at the Centennial, was not lost, and his name is not Willie Gray. There seems to have been a general misunderstanding all around in regard to him. His name is James Gray, and his parents live on Union avenue, Allegheny. He went on the children's excursion to visit relatives at Philadelphia, and upon his arrival there they missed him at the depot, which gave rise to the rumor of his loss. He was subsequently found all right, and is still with his friends in that city.

The Weather.

Record from 17th September to October 17th: Cloudy and variable days, eighteen; of which eleven were of rain, and one of snow. Clear or fair, twelve. Freezes or white frosts seven, from the 7th to the 17th inst. Rain, five inches.

Average thermometer, 54; month 16.28. Do. same days 1875, 54 do. 16.17.

Prospects of the winter: moderately severe, or not mild.

INDICATIONS.

From October 17th to November 16th, fourteen cloudy or variable days; eight of rain or snow; a dry month; last half, white frosts, smoky mornings and evenings and pleasant mild days. Rains near the end of the lunar month. ***

PITTSBURGH, October 23, 1876.

A HILL FIRE.

Five Frame Dwelling Houses on Bedford Avenue Burned—The Work of an Incendiary—Loss $7,000.

So many alarms of fire have been sounded recently without any damage resulting from the blazes, that most every one has come to believe unless the second alarm is sent in there was no damage. But the hill last evening succeeded in getting up something. About half-past ten box 81 was pulled, located at No. 5 engine house, Centre avenue. It proved to be a fire in a row of five frame houses, on Bedford avenue, just above Kirkpatrick street, in the Thirteenth ward. They were dwelling houses of not very great value. Three of them, belonging to Alex. Gormley, were totally destroyed. The other two belonged to a man named Kane, and were very badly damaged. The total loss will not be over six or seven thousand dollars. Gormley was insured, but Kane's policy had expired just two weeks ago, and he had not renewed it yet. The fire originated in one of the houses belonging to Gormley, which was unoccupied, and is believed to be the work of an incendiary.

ANOTHER REVERSAL.

Fourth Avenue Government Building Site—The Case of Darlington vs. The United States—The Court Below had no Jurisdiction in the Appointment of Viewers.

A decision in the Supreme Court in the case of Wm. M. Darlington and wife vs. The United States, in which is involved the condemnation of property between Third and Fourth avenues, on Smithfield street for the purpose of a site for a Government building. The Government it will be remembered, condemned property in four different localities for the purposes it would seem of ascertaining which could be secured for the least money. In one of the four localities is the property of Mr. Darlington, who resisted the action of the Government and appealed from the action of the court in the appointment of viewers, and the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the court below. The opinion was delivered by Paxson, J. who assigned the following reasons for the decision.

"Have they proceeded to do so according to law? Without entering into a tedious recital of the facts, it is sufficient to say that it appears from the record in this case that proceedings have been commenced to condemn four different sites, with a view of selecting one out of the four. There is no warrant for this in the act of Congress. It authorizes the selection of one site, but it does not create a roving commission to experiment upon the values of different sites. It is said, however, that this action can be sustained under the second section of act of Assembly referred to which provides, "that the United States may pay the costs and refuse to take the land if in their judgment the compensation assessed therefor is excessive." The most that can be claimed for this section is that in case the United States should select a site, and the damages assessed should be found excessive, and no terms could be made with the owner, the United States might pay the costs, abandon the proceedings and then proceed to condemn another site. It could not be held to justify proceeding against an indefinite number of sites at the same time and thus chaffering with the respective owners for the lowest price. And if such construction could be successfully claimed for it, the answer is that the Legislature has no such power. The State may take the property of a citizen for public use by virtue of its right of eminent domain, but cannot take it for the benefit of another sovereignty, for the use of the citizens of the latter, nor can it delegate its right of emenent domain to another sovereignty for such purpose" * * * * "These proceedings are radically defective for other reasons. The petition was evidently presented under the act of Assembly of February 19th, 1849, entitled act regulating railroad companies and its supplements, I am not aware of any other act under which such proceedings could be instituted. The petitioners are bound by the terms of the act under which they proceed * * * * There was no averment that any attempt had been made to agree with the property owners. Nor is any reason given why no such attempt had been made. It was therefore error in the Court below to appoint the viewers. There was no jurisdiction."

"Again in proceedings under this act of 1849, there must be a taking. Here there was none." * * * * * *

"More might be said. What has been said is sufficient. A proceeding of this nature is out of the common law, and every requirement of the statute under which it is taken must be complied with, etc. These proceedings are irregular from their inception."

"The judgment entered in this case, and all proceedings subsequent to the filing of the petition, so far as they relate to the plaintiff in error, are reserved and set aside."

THE KOHLMAN HOMICIDE.

TESTIMONY FOR THE COMMONWEALTH.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer, yesterday, Judges Ewing and White on the bench, the case of the Commonwealth vs. William Thomann, indicted for the murder of August Kohlman, was taken up.

A HISTORY OF THE CASE.

In February last, William Thomann and August Kohlman, the former a Swiss and the latter a German, entered into partnership in the butchering business. They rented a small house at the head of Federal street in the Second ward, Allegheny, one portion of which they occupied as a meat shop, and in the other they lived, doing their own cooking and housekeeping. So far as can be ascertained from the testimony adduced they lived together pleasantly and agreeably, nothing of a serious nature occurring to disturb them until the morning of June 28th, about one o'clock, when the neighbors were aroused by the cry of murder from the house they occupied, and on investigation of the causes the house proved to be on fire, and Thomann, the prisoner, was found on the outside moaning and apparently suffering great pain from severe wounds on his head, evidently made with a hatchet or other instrument of that kind, and Kohlman was found on the bed inside the burning building, in a dying condition, with more serious wounds made from a similar instrument. Their wounds were dressed, after which Thomann stated that they were attacked while asleep, by robbers. Both men were sent to the West Penn Hospital, where Kohlman died a short time after his arrival. Thomann was subsequently charged with the crime, and after he had recovered from his injuries was arrested, and after a hearing was committed for trial.

THE TRIAL.

The Grand Jury, at the September session, found a true bill, and yesterday the case came up for trial. The entire morning session was taken up in selecting a jury, some thirty men being called and examined before the following twelve were secured: William H. McConnell, foreman; David Beck, John Brush, Samuel Sturgeon, Howard Day, William Stewart, Isaac Weaver, Abijah Hays, Dickson Bailie, John Graitge, John Nelson, John Herron.

The Commonwealth is represented by District Attorney Montooth, John Coyle and W. C. Stillwagon, Esqs., and Thomas M. Marshall, F. Luty and Josiah Cohen, Esqs., appear for the prisoner.

The case was opened on behalf of the Commonwealth by Mr. Stillwagon, who stated the theory of the prosecution and what they expected to prove. The following testimony was then elicited:

Jas. Quinn, sworn—Live next door to where the murder was committed; Federal street extention, Second ward, Allegheny, at the foot of the Perresville road; drive team for a living; have lived there fifteen years; have seen Wm. Thomann and talked to him; knew the deceased; in the month of June they kept a butcher shop one door below my house; there is about three feet between the houses; was at home on the 28th of June; on the 28th of June about one o'clock A. M. heard the cries of Thomann; jumped out of bed and saw him standing on the back platform of the house, which was on fire; went down to the back of the house, about eighteen feet below him, and asked him what was the matter, and he ran into the front of the house; went round to the front and asked him again what was the matter, and he made no answer; went to get an ax; told Thomann to go away, and he did so; the third or fourth bucket of water heard Kohlman inside; heard Seifert say go in and get that man out; did not see Kohlman carried out; was standing at the window all the time; iron bars on the windows; there are two windows in front; found the back part of the house with the windows and shutters shut and the smoke coming out of the door; saw Thoman at Seifert's; the engines came there when we were putting the fire out; after the fire was out went in to see how the robbers got in; saw Thomann when the doctors were fixing his head; he had a white shirt on and was trying to get up all the time; when I went to get the axe Thomann was on the plank road, on the opposite side of the house, thirty feet from me; he was crying ough—ough—ough. He was standing with his back to the door when I came back; pried the railing off; while I was doing that he was running around crying; he run up against me when I was going to break the window; Thomann was close to the door when I came with the pick; could not tell how close to the door those persons were; Thomann went to Seifert's after the fire was put out and went to bed; he made no remarks to me that I could understand.

There was no new matters elicited in the cross-examination.

Michael Seifert sworn—Live second house this side Thoman's butcher shop; my attention was attracted to Thomann and Kohlman's house about 1 o'clock; my attention was called to it by my wife; jumped up and looked out and saw Thomann staggering around the road; Quinn cried fire; I ran down stairs; saw Quinn's family and others; said why don't you go in; when I got in the rooms where both burning, and I put it out; have been in the house several times; the fire was burning around the jams and at the ice box; (Plan of the premises shown witness, and was explained by him to the jury, and the situation of affairs in the house when he entered, discribed), as soon as I got in the water came to me as fast as I could dash it on; found the closet on the right on fire, and the ice box on the left burning; in the back room the most fire I could see was at the foot of the bed; the foot of the bed was within six inches of the door jam; there was only one person on the bed, but I could not see who was in the bed; saw two fellows, one of them a boarder of mine, and they took Kohlmann out; saw the fire department come with torches; when the light was brought in saw where one man had been lying on the bed, and where his head had been lying saw a pool of blood; did not examine the back windows that night, but next morning they were busted off their hinges, and one window busted clear out; the upper window was closed; the door that goes into the stairway was unlocked and partly open; the door leading to the porch was unlocked, with the key on the inside; examined the key and their was no impression of "outsiders" on it; the men were taken to my house; when I went back into the butcher shop found a hatchet the first thing; found it about a foot from the chimney jam, about four feet from the bed; did not examine the hatchet at the time; examined it afterward and found blood on it; found a pocketbook in the house with seven dollars and a half in it; it was not a foot away from the foot of the bed; found a watch hanging in the cupboard afterward; also found two trunks; the big trunk belonged to William, and was open; the other was closed; they had been keeping the butcher shop since last February; was not in the habit of visiting them, don't know how these men got along together in their business relations; there were two pillows on the bed; did not see any blood only such as bed bugs would make if you kill them, on the wall; both pillows were bloody; they looked as if but one man had been in bed.

Cross-examined by Mr. Marshall—Thomann had a pair of pants on when I saw him on the road.

Re-direct—Kohlman had no clothing on except a shirt when I found him; Thomann was in his bare feet.

James Quinn, Jr., sworn—Am fifteen years old; knew Wm. Thomann; knew Kun Kohlman; my attention was attracted to the affair by my mother; saw Thomann on the board walk; he had nothing but a shirt and pants on; took hold of him and he fell down two or three times; took him to the store door; heard Mr. Seifert say take this man out of here; saw Dewire take Kohlman out; he could not stand up; was not in the house again that night; was in next morning; saw the bed in the back room; the burning was all the foot of the bed; did not notice the back windows; the blind of the front window was burned; did not see Kohlman after I saw him at the hospital dead—took him to the hospital, and came back after Thomann, Kohlman was dead; Kohlman was not as large a man as Thomann; never knew of them quarreling.

The cross examination elicited nothing further than to indicate the line of defense to be that the man Dewire, who is absent, was the guilty party.

Matilda Smith Sworn—This witness knew nothing about the case.

Dr. John Campbell Sworn—This witness described the wounds on Kohlman, and said they were such as would be made by the pole of a hatchet. He had dressed the wounds of both men before they were sent to the hospital. Kohlman he said was severely burned about the feet and legs, and also about the face.

George Beck, sworn—I knew Kohlman and Thomann; lived near them and used to be there occasionally; about 1 o'clock heard the cry Ough! Ough!! Ough!!! saw a fire and went down; saw Thomann; he had a white shirt on and there was blood on his shirt; it was about 7 minutes past one o'clock when I went out; saw blood on the floor and on the bedding, which was scattered over the floor; the next morning Thomann was asked if there was robbers in the house; Thoman answered there were robbers; Shaffer then asked how many there were, and Thoman said three; Mr. Shaffer then asked him if he had seen three, and he said no—he had only seen one, Mr. Shaffer asked him how he knew there were three if he had seen but one, and he commenced to moan and cry; heard Quinn say to Thoman "If you don't go away I will hit you over the head with this."

The cross examination failed to elicit any new matter.

Mrs. George Beck, sworn—This witness corroborated the testimony of her husband.

Ann Quinn, sworn—live next door to the butcher shop; they got along very well for the first four months. The testimony of this witness corroborated that of Michael Seifert.

Joseph Shaffer, sworn—Am seventeen years old; know both Kohlman and Thomann; lived up stairs in the butcher shop; had been in the shop frequently before the difficulty; never heard them quarrel; when Kohlman went to church Thomann got mad at him; heard Thomann two or three weeks before the murder ask my father when he was going to move away from the house; witness identified the hatchet found in the room as Kohlman's hatchet.

Cross-examined—Heard them have cross words together about money and business; heard them joking together.

Simon McCroney sworn—Am a grocer; live next door to Thomann and Kolhman's butcher shop; have lived there for fifteen years; don't know of Thomann and Kohlman having any quarrels; remember the night of the murder; when I saw Thomann, think there was some blood on his shirt sleeves.

Cross-examined—Noticed blood on both Kohlman and Thomann, but the blood on the latter was fresher than on the former.

Mary Seifert sworn—This witness testified to nothing new except the statement of Thomann to her on the morning after the murder, which was that he had been struck by some one while he was lying on the bed, that he had laid down to sleep, and when he woke he saw a man standing over him trying to get into his pocket, and then he was struck and knew nothing more. The prisoner told the same story, she stated, to another person the same morning.

Miss Eliza Harris sworn—Lived four lots above the butcher shop; on the night of the murder I was up sewing until one o'clock; heard a cry of murder while I was looking out of the back window; thought the cry came from the butcher shop; ran down stairs and out the front way to the shop and saw Thomann standing with his back to the front door; noticed that his hands were very bloody; was looking out of the window for five minutes before I heard the cry of murder; there was no noise until after I heard the cry of murder.

At this point court adjourned until nine o'clock this morning.

New Store and New Goods.

"A new broom sweeps clean," is an old adage, and may apply to new goods as well as new brooms, for new goods are so much fresher and more desirable that ladies especially will seek them out and purchase largely. We propose, therefore, in this notice, to direct them to the locality where has been opened but recently, one of the largest, finest and freshest assortments of dress goods brought to the city for many years. We refer to the opening of Messrs. A. W. Carsten & Co., corner of Sixth and Liberty streets, who have a full line of all qualities of dress goods in plaids, stripes and damassee fabrics at 12½, 18, 25 and 30 cents. Their silk department, which is stocked with the richest fabrics of the loom, is especially interesting by reason of material, beauty of luster and finish and the special bargains in this line. Some black silks, being of extra good value and finish at the low price of $2 per yard, and beautiful Lyons Colored Silks at $1.25 and $1.50 per yard. But although their silks are very cheap, their cashmeres must rank with the cheapest goods ever offered, as elegant black cashmeres, good and durable, are selling for 75 cents per yard, and are a great bargain. The cloak and shawl department is extra large, and unusually varied, offering no excuse to patrons for making suitable and satisfactory selections by reason of want of variety and degree of quality. Every known style of these goods in Matelasse Cloaks and Beaver Shawls of all the new shades. No lady should purchase a cloak or shawl without having first examined the desirable and fashionable styles in these goods of Messrs. Carsten & Co. Other seasonable goods, such a Flannels, Waterproofs, &c., are here in large quantities, durable in manufacture and low in price, so that patrons will find it to their pleasure and profit to give this new store an early call.

Centennial Accommodations.

There is but little satisfaction in visiting the Centennial unless parties can be assured of home comforts and accommodations, and Pittsburghers have in the Great Western Hotel, Nos. 1311, 1313 and 1315 Market street, a desirable house, under the proprietorship of the genial, clever and accommodating J. L. Dillinger, for many years in business in our city. Under the new regime this hotel has been enlarged, modernized, refitted and newly furnished, and street cars to the Centennial buildings pass and repass every minute. The table is abundantly supplied with choice and substantial viands, and every possible attention given to the comfort and welfare of the guests. Every appointment and arrangement of this hotel will favorably compare with those of prouder name and pretension, while the charges are very moderate and reasonable, which make it a popular stopping-place.

The Turkish Bath for Ladies.

If our lady friends were aware of the benefits they would undoubtedly receive from a frequent use of the Turkish bath, they would certainly patronize the establishment at 80 Diamond street. For the relief of internal congestion, beautifying the complexion, purifying the blood and enhancing all personal charms, by a general renovation and purification of the system, these baths have no equal. The lady in charge of the female department is a graduate of Medical College, and cannot fail to give satisfaction. Almost without exception, those who take one bath become customers, and this is the best recommendatien the bath could have. The rooms are open for ladies, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 8 to 12 A. M.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD.

Third Day's Session—Reports of Presbyteries and of Committees—An Emphatic Protest Against Consolidating Church Boards—Miscellaneous Business.

The third day's session of the Presbyterian Synod commenced in the Shady Side church yesterday afternoon. After the opening of the session, Rev. Wm. Wilson, of the Synod of Missouri, was admitted as a corresponding member.

The statistical report of the Presbytery of Washington was submitted, read and approved. There are in the Presbytery 34 ministers, 41 churches, and 6,413 communicants. The dismissals were four and the receptions seven.

By the statistical report of the Pittsburgh Presbytery it is found there are in its boundaries 58 ministers, 48 churches and 8,719 communicants. The total contributions for all purposes during the year were $180,105.00.

In the West Virginia Presbytery there are 16 ministers, 38 churches and 1,906 communicants.

In Redstone Presbytery there are 26 ministers, 34 churches, and 5,588 communicants.

The Committee on the Board of Colportage submitted its annual report. They recommended the election of Dr. Scovell to fill the vacancy in the Board occasioned by the death of Dr. Howard. The recommendation was adopted.

The receipts during the year were $26,901.38, and expenditures $26,125.85.

The Board of Home Missions reported that the work during the year had been satisfactory, although the receipts were $2,084.69 less than for the year preceding. The organization of women's societies was earnestly recommended.

The Committee on Foreign Missions reported that while during the year the membership had increased 1,781, collections had not increased, but there had really been a decrease of $720. Special effort is requested in order to get the contributions to at least average $1 per member. The receipts by the General Board are greatly less than before. The work of the Board, outside of financial considerations, was more than satisfactory.

The special committee appointed to consider the possibility of a modification of the mileage system, so as to make it more efficient, reported that no such modification was possible, and therefore recommended that pastors and sessions be required to comply with the present plan.

The annual report of the representatives of the Synod of Pittsburgh on the committee of the Synods on the Benevolence work of the church, was presented and referred to the Synod Committee on Benevolence and Finances. The report of the representative is very voluminous. The most important point contained in it, and one that provoked extended discussion, was the recommendation that the Church Erection Board be consolidated with the Board of Home Missions. This recommendation the committee, to which the report was referred, endorsed. This committee also expressed the opinion that two Secretaries will be sufficient for the united Board. At present there are three.

The lengthy and animated discussion which followed took a wide range. Many of the members were opposed to consolidation in the Church, because the different societies each have a separate and distinct work to perform, and to have it done well absolutely requires that they should be kept distinct. On the other hand, it was claimed that the Church Extension Society has not enough work to do, and the consolidation should be made in the interests of economy of money, time and labor. The recommendation that one of the Secretaries of the Board be removed, for the same reason, also awoke decided opposition, it being claimed that the committee was rather more desirous of getting rid of one of the Secretaries who, it was alleged, had not done his duty, than of making a change for economy's sake.

After the discussion had continued for an exceedingly lengthy time, the previous question was called upon the recommendations of the committee, and both were emphatically negatived. The report, therefore, was not adopted.

In connection with the report the unusual feature occurred of a committee not being able to explain what it meant by a recommendation that it had made. When this recommendation was read, it being something in reference to making Dr. Bakewell a member of the Synod Committee on Benevolence, a number of members asked its significance. After several attempts at explanation were made by others, who got the matter more muddled, the chairman of the committee was called upon and acknowledged that he didn't know himself what it meant when he wrote it. Considerable laughter was indulged in over the matter, and it was finally dropped.

The Moderator, Dr. Fisher, announced the committees for the next three years. He changed the chairmanship of most of the committees, for the reason, he said, that he thought that position should rotate among the Presbyteries.

At a quarter after four Synod adjourned and visited in a body the Pennsylvania Female college.

Last evening a conference meeting on Sunday school work was held, at which addresses were made by Revs. Wightman, Moreland, Dr. Hodge, and others; the three mentioned being stated speakers.

The Synod will continue its sessions today. The consideration of the report of the Committee on Education, which was read just before adjournment, was made the order of the day for 10 o'clock.
